A. BACKGROUND

CRS Farmer-to-Farmer (F2F) Program is a USAID funded 5-year program (July 2018 – June 2023) that will provide technical assistance from United States (U.S) volunteers to farmers, farmer groups (cooperatives and associations), agribusinesses and other agriculture sector institutions. The program objectives are to facilitate economic growth within targeted agriculture sub-sectors, enhance sub-sector inclusiveness to expand participation to a broader range of individuals and communities and to increase the American public's understanding of international development issues and US international development programs. Volunteers, recruited from all States and the District of Columbia, are individuals who have domestic careers, farms and agribusinesses, or are retirees who want to participate in development efforts. F2F program will assist in agriculture development, commodity value chain competitiveness and firm upgrading by providing technical assistance to introduce new technologies, innovations and development of local capacity for more productive, profitable, sustainable and equitable agriculture systems.

¹ USAID precisely classifies PERSUAP in four categories; PERSUAP Type I assignments directly related to pesticides recommendations, Type II as assignments with indirectly related with pesticides, Type III assignments related to curriculum review and designing, business plan development and strategies development and Type IV as assignments associated with other USAID projects and collaborators.

The Timor-Leste Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries Strategic Plan² recognizes the fundamental importance of agriculture to Timor-Leste's economy and the impact of agriculture on poverty reduction, food and nutrition security, economic growth, and income and employment generation through its linkages to other sectors of the economy. The agriculture sector in Timor-Leste accounted for 19% of Gross Domestic Product (GDP), or over $253 million in 2013. However, there is a considerable net deficit in agricultural trade as imports in 2014 were valued at approximately $60 million. Major imports include rice, sugar, meat (chicken, beef, pork), vegetable oil, fish, milk, and vegetables (potato, onion)2. In rural communities 57% of women and 60% of men are actively involved in agriculture3. Agriculture consists primarily of subsistence farming with limited access to inputs, technical knowledge, and market linkages. There is a heavy reliance on traditional agricultural practices such as slash-and-burn cultivation. Most smallholdings are mixed rainfed farms growing maize, cassava, red kidney beans, sweet potato, rice, groundnut, and vegetables. Coffee, coconut and candlenut are the most common tree crops. Livestock, such as poultry, pigs, cattle, buffalo, goats and sheep are raised on a small-scale and extensive PTC (People Trade Company) is a local export company which was established in 2002 by a 100 % stake of a Japanese NGO, PARCIC. PTC purchases Arabica coffee from coffee producers' cooperative in Maubisse (COCAMAU: 592 members) and Robusta coffee from cooperative in Ermera (KOHAR: 133 members) and exports them to the Japanese market as fair trade. PTC also purchases and distributes products of Aroma Timor, a women's group network which is organized by 16 groups in 6 municipalities (Aileu, Ainaro, Baucau, Bobonaro, Covalima and Liquisa), to both domestic and international market. PTC imports packaging materials from China and Indonesia, which are necessary for these products.

These activities are designed and developed to diversify the local economy in Timor-Leste. Timor-Leste as a new country which won the independence in 2002 is aiming to diversify the industry by moving away from a single economy dependent on natural resources in its 'Strategic National Development Plan 2011-2030'. However, the lack of the experiences and human resources become challenges in all sectors in this country.
